Research

"My story is not a typical story of poverty or unemployment. I am from a university educated, high socio-economic background. I guess if anything, my story shows this can happen to anyone."

TasCOSS's social policy analysts and researchers...

Participate in policy making → Bring innovative ideas to the table → Provide representation on behalf of Tasmanians → Recommend the way forward to Government

"It's important to balance my necessities and treats, payment by payment. I am able to manage some months easier than others. I feel guilty for buying hobby items, but life involves having fun things too."

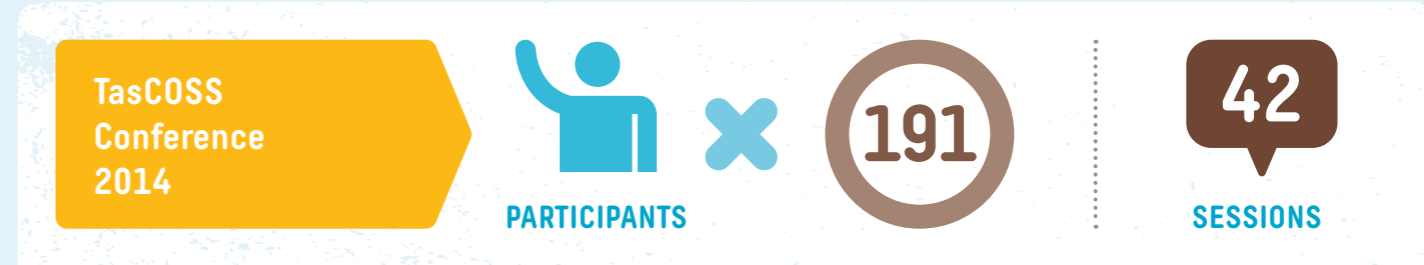

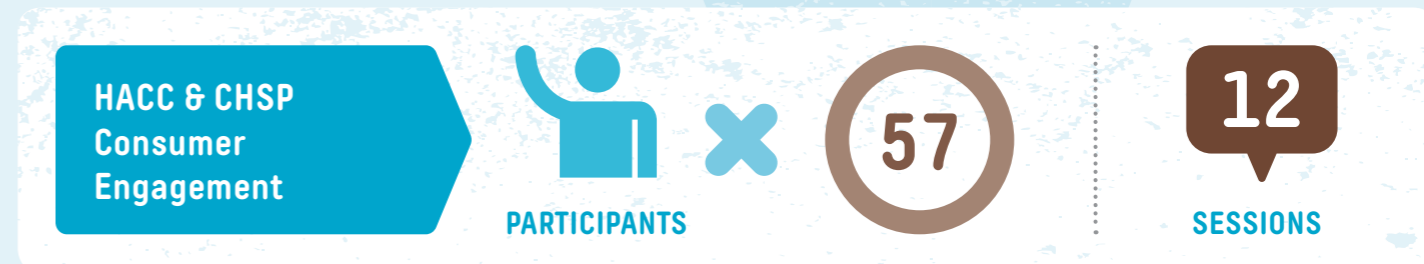

Connection

"I do focus too much of my time on money, but when every dollar counts it becomes a way of living; day by day, week by week, payment by payment."

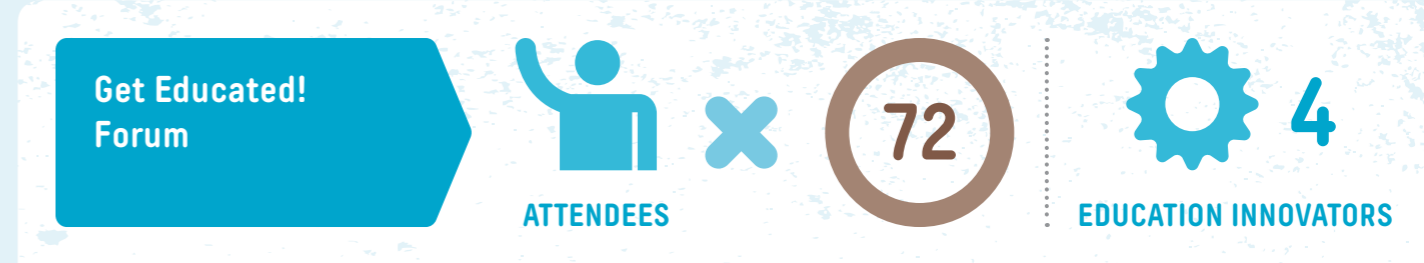

Our sector development activities connect Members with

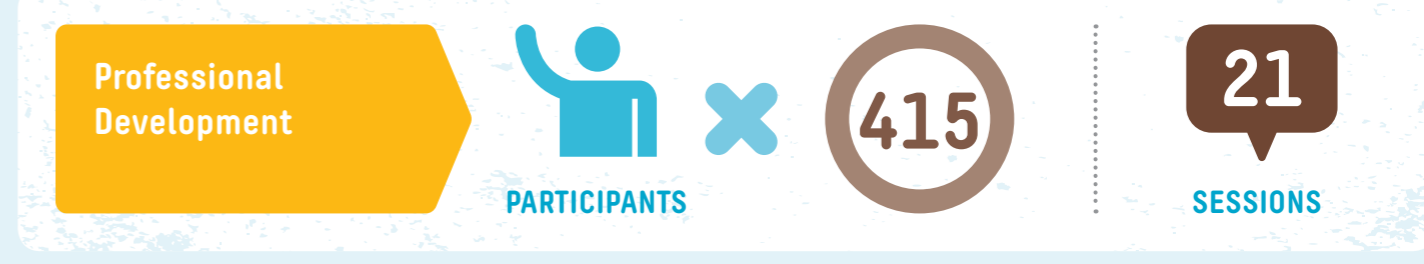

"I use the City Mission and other places, NILS for getting a fridge and washing machine, that's how I can do it. I pay for my daughter's braces, and dancing lessons. I want to give her the best possible chance to stay off drugs."
